

Study Guide for Code Red at the Supermall

A series of bomb scares threaten the popularity of the West Edmonton Mall. Tom, Liz and their not-so-funny sidekick Deitmar Oban become involved in the exciting and dangerous search for the elusive "bomber".

Pre-reading suggestions

It is hard to picture a single building large enough to contain over 800 stores, a huge amusement park with rides, a regulation size hockey rink, a monstrous waterslide park, whole streets of restaurants, an island marina complete with passenger-carrying submarines and a large "theme" hotel. In most cities, malls of 100 or so stores are not uncommon, so young readers who have not seen the West Edmonton Mall have little to compare it to. They need to "think big" to imagine this one. Photos can be in the Junior Encyclopedia of Canada and in Elma Schemenauer's Hello, Edmonton.

In the front of Eric Wilson's paperback, there is a floor layout of the mall. Imagine walking eight city blocks from the hotel to Luggage Unlimited. Look at the size of the Ice Palace near the center of the mall.

Discuss how you would feel if your home or school or local mall had to be evacuated due to bomb threats.

Discuss how you feel about friends who insist that you do something with them even though you have told them that you do not want to be involved.
